INVESTIGATION REVEALS SYSTEMIC FAILINGS IN CONNECTICUT SPECIAL EDUCATION

CT News Junkie March 12, 2024

Despite making huge investments in CT schools and passing historic levels of funding for local boards of education, there's a lot more work ahead to ensure quality public education at a cost that local taxpayers can afford.

REP. JOHNSON IS WORKING ACROSS THE AISLE TO HELP OUR STUDENTS

Connecticut spends over $2.8 billion annually on special education services – crowding out resources for other programming while putting additional stress on local property taxes

- ✓ Increase and streamline public funding streams
- ✓ Promote and grow local programming to best serve students
- ✓ Collaborate with State and regional programming to create economies of scale
- ✓ Ensure high standards
